

CLAIMS

We claim:

1. A powder-dispensing pouch that is placed in a fly pocket area of a pair of male underwear, the powder dispensing pouch comprising:

a plurality of layers of a porous material joined to create a cavity;

a powder contained within the cavity;

a sealed edge which keeps the powder between the plurality of layers of a porous material, allowing the powder to be dispersed through the plurality of layers of a porous material in a male user's groin area.

2. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the plurality of layers of a porous material include a top layer of porous material and a bottom layer of porous material.

3. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the porous material is linen.

4. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the porous material is a woven fabric.

5. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the porous material is gauze.

6. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the powder is moisture-absorbing powder.

7. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the powder is chafe-reducing powder.

8. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the powder is odor-controlling powder.

9. The powder-dispensing pouch according to claim 1, wherein the powder is medicated powder.
